Learning from SCR’s where Child Sexual Exploitation was a key factor reminds us to:

- Be aware of warning signs of potential CSE and grooming
- Ensure that disclosures from young people about CSE are taken seriously and dealt with as a crime
- Ensure that early assessment is carried out to make sure that individual incidents are addressed
- Compile Victim profiles to identify local ‘hotspots’ or methods that are used to target potential victims
- Identify perpetrators quickly to help ensure a case is built against them by the police
- Ensure that victims of CSE receive on-going support to protect from further exploitation in the future
- Embed a child-centred approach and persevere with disengaged young people in order to protect and support them
